Maps For The Serious Angler

Fish this area for chinook, while the tide is going out. You will find pockets of bait just to the inside of Lowell Point. Try to stay on top of the bait as much as possible. Troll from Lowell Point to the inside of Elger Bay. Don't poke your head out to much past Lowell Point because you will be caught by strong tidal currents running off of the Point. Troll the standard green/white Coyote spoon with a green flasher. Sometimes bait can be very effective for winter chinook fishing. Try a whole herring by it self. Secure the herring with a bait holder head. A good choice would be the Krippled Herring holder. Fish 90-120 feet deep. However watch for suspended salmon at 60-75 feet.
